Scholastic ecords are of first importance. If a student is having difficulties n classwork, it is useless to think of having him give additional time to activities that require work beyond the regular school day. Practice for dramactics requires several hours work each evening. High school actors must be able and willing to devote these extra hours to strenuous practice sessions. For example, our current speech textbook used at Grayling high school suggests a minimum of six weeks rehearsal with each rehearsal being three hours in ength, five days a week. Rehearsals, according to the best drama texts, should be held after school, but because in our system athletics takes precedence over other activities, local dramatic practice must come in the evenings from 7 to 10. High school actors must be ready to spend long evening sessions in dramatic rehearsals. Finally, a play should have dramatic movement, or plot. There should be a conflict of opposing forces. Complications and suspense from beginning to end is a desirable aspect. There is no excuse for producing poor quality plays or plays with ultra-modern ideas or over-emotional and risque scenes. Plays with royalties should be given first consideration. Of course, many of the classic plays, such as those of Shakespeare, are non-royalty plays, and these should be produced from time to time. Good plays will appeal to the general audience.

Anne Marie Church In Adrian Musical

Anne Marie Church, of Grayling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Church, 308 Ottawa, will play the role of Mrs. Cratchit in the Theta Alpha Phi's production of Morris, .... in and Wood's musical, Mr. Scrooge at Adrian College.

The part is that of the wife of Bob Cratchit, Mr. Scrooge's head bookkeeper. Although not a major role it is nonetheless significant, as Mrs. Cratchit seems to represent a cheery merriment in contrast to Scrooge's pessimism and cyni-cism. Anne Marie is not a newcomer to the stage at Adrian College as she has appeared in such plays as My Fair Lady, as Inez in No Exit, and as one of the Comforters in J.B.

Mr. Scrooge is an unusual and very funny adaptation of Charles Dickens' classic tale. A Christmas Carol. The music adds a touch of lightness to the clever script which should make it a production which both young and old will enjoy. The play will be directed by Alan D. Rust, a member of Theta Alpha Phi, and will be produced in the Downs Arena Theater on Dec. 12, 13 and 14.
